One of the stunning waratah blooms to be admired in the Railway Station gardens in October. Picture supplied

The time has come when those maintaining the gardens are having difficulty with this work due to them getting older and needing to spend more time looking after their own properties. Over the years it has basically been a small group from the Heritage Railway who have looked after the gardens with the assistance of some members of the Garden Club from time to time.

These gardens have been sought after by visitors to the Robertson Open Gardens weekend and have added to the overall success of the open gardens event.

This is a call out to any member of the community who would be able to give some time to assist in maintaining the gardens.

The Waratahs Need Your Help!

Every year visitors throng to the Robertson Heritage Railway Station precinct to enjoy the spectacular waratah display in the gardens.

The gardens at the Heritage Railway Station at Robertson have been maintained by volunteers for many years. This collection of waratahs is as good or better than any others in this state.

If you would like to put your hand up, please contact Ian Wallace on 0412 696 381. He would love to hear from you.

These gardens are important to the village and need to be maintained for future generations to enjoy.

Update from the Robertson Business Chamber

By Tim Hewitt, President

The Robertson Business Chamber has been keeping busy despite pandemic restrictions limiting gatherings. Our members, the local businesses in Robertson, have been battling on in various ways over the last couple of months with many adapting to new ways of servicing their customers. Most of our food outlets are offering take away, with the Pub, Moonacres, Lucinda's, The Urban Food Tribe and Cheese Factory all open to some degree. The good folk of Robertson are very grateful for these vendors keeping their doors open as best they can.

Others are taking the opportunity to renovate and we look forward to seeing what Pizzas in the Mist, the Cheese Factory and the Pub will reveal when life gets 'back to normal'.

You may be aware that the exhibition period for the Councils Draft Housing Strategy and Local Strategic Planning Statement has now closed. The Chamber was pleased to work with the Robertson Aged Friendly/Futures group in distributing a flyer with ideas about the importance of housing in Robertson, and how that affects the social and economic future of any town. The Chamber then made a submission to the Council, as did many local residents and businesses. Council's response to these strategies and ideas will set the future path for the whole Shire, and we hope that Robertson will be given its fair share (or just a bit more) in Council deliberations. I daresay the last has not been heard of this process and there will be further opportunities to influence Council thinking.

Over the next few months, as we start chopping wood and settling in to winter, we are all looking forward to our lives returning to something like we used to know. There are promising signs that visitors have Robertson back on their bucket list with the last few weekends being very busy in town.

Best to All,
Tim Hewitt for The Robertson Business Chamber

Welcome sign more welcoming again

At the Friendly Grocer (Robertson Supermarket), money is raised for community projects through the sale of used potato sacks. A number of organisations have benefitted from this initiative. Recently money was donated to the Robertson Men's Shed to undertake much needed repairs on the welcome sign at the eastern edge of the village. Dave Johnston from Johno Signs did the sign writing, whilst the Men's Shed purchased the new board, a piece of blackbutt, painted it and removed the old sign and fixed the new one. Great community spirit shown by all concerned!

Alterations in Memory, Lily Cummins—www.theshac.com.au/awaken

New Exhibition Awaken curated by Lily Cummins opening soon at The SHAC

The SHAC, Southern Highlands Artisans Collective, is proud to announce Awaken, a new exhibition opening on Friday June 5 and running until Monday July 13.

The exhibition features work by the resident artists of The SHAC and is being curated by its youngest painter, Lily Cummins. Lily’s vision to bring this exhibition together was born from the desire to represent a way in which our world may emerge and evolve out of this pandemic, as well as what this period of isolation has meant to artists.

“Art jolts us out of a fuzzy haze back into a crisp, clear, alert wakefulness,” says Lily. “It cuts through boredom and makes life rich and interesting again. It makes us pay attention rather than being distracted and it transmutes the familiar into the mysterious.

When you wake up and actually see the world instead of just looking at it with the blindness of inattention, colours are brighter, lines are sharper, images are clearer. Art makes us see again with new and innocent eyes.”

The exhibition at The SHAC will be open Friday to Monday 10am-4pm. On-line, the exhibition will be visible through The SHAC website and social media channels.

Pencil in the Date for Robertson Open Gardens

By Marion Tyree, President, Robertson Garden Club

What great news that we are now able to go out more, however we must all be careful and maintain social distancing. Unfortunately we are not sure when the Garden Club will be able to start having our monthly meetings again. It may be a few more months before we can, but as soon as the amount of people allowed at meetings rises we will let you know. We would be very happy to welcome new members to our meetings where we have guest speakers and afternoon tea. It is a great place to meet new people who love gardening.

We will be making a decision about holding Robertson Open Gardens towards the end of June when we know whether gatherings are allowed in October. We are looking forward to opening the gardens as it will be a much needed cheer up to our village after the social distancing and lock down.

At this stage the date is still 10th and 11th October. If all goes ahead the Garden Club will need plenty of helpers to sit at the gates and put out the signs. Please ring me on 0401425 565 or Karen on 0403 044 828 if you can help in any way.

The History of Robertson School of Arts (Part 2)

By Quentin Waters

The December 2019 edition of the Robertson News included part 1 of this history. It could not be included in full in that edition but we are pleased to be able to include the final episode now.

The previous story ended in the late 1970s with the ominous words The School of Arts was facing its imminent demise.....

The town rose to the challenge once again, and two women with a vision for its restoration began a fundraising drive. Their first fundraising event was a Gang Show lead by the Guides. The "Cherry Blossom Ball" was held for a number of years and a junior committee ran discos and assisted the main committee with younger views. Eventually in March 1980 J.C. Mauger, Hope Waters, and Mrs E.L. McBarron called a meeting to begin the hall's revival. The new restoration committee of J.C. Mauger president, Hope Waters treasurer, Joan Compagnoni secretary, and members Mrs Potter, Dorothy Nugent's, Edna McGuinness and later Bob Ford and Edna Casey then set about the task at hand. The newly formed Lion's Club made the hall their project for the year.

They replaced the fascia and guttering on the building before repainting inside in January 1981. The Wood brothers replaced the roof, while Bob Harris replaced the windows, and Dorothy Hall donated the seating around the hall. The kitchen was rebuilt and, the old floor was pulled up and the ground dug out in 1992 to install a new sprung floor. To comply with modern safety standards the doors were altered to swing outwards in case of emergency in 1993. On 26 June 1990 The Committee became incorporated, and to help pay for the hall's maintenance the markets, held on the second Sunday of the month, were established that year. Having been painted stark white for most of its history, the exterior of the hall was repainted in more pleasing heritage colours by the Lion's Club, and around this time in the 90s rebuilding the toilets was brought up, but this was postponed for lack of funds. It wouldn't be until 2015 before the ball was finally set rolling on this project. The Committee raised $50,000 to contribute towards the new amenities block, while the NSW Government granted another $217,672 to assist with the construction completed in November 2017, 15 years after it was first raised. But the Committee didn't stop there. The interior was repainted, and this past year they've built an attractive front fence, re-laid the concrete paving, and replaced the stage roof, before lifting the building's presence with a fresh coat of paint outside. On the horizon refurbishments to the stage are hoped for, but unlike other halls across the district now in the hands of Council, the Robertson School of Arts is owned and maintained by the people of Robertson. It is only through the time and effort of a small band of volunteers that this institution, like so many others in our community, continues serve us. Whether it be through two of its longest standing relationships –providing a venue for school gatherings and presentations, and commemorating the sacrifice of our servicemen on the front line – or many other varied civic proceedings, the School of Arts remains an invaluable asset to our community more than a century on, and 80 years now since the present building was constructed.

Vale John Richard Charlton (Woody) Woodman

23 March 1947- 4 May 2020

It was with great sadness that the news was received of the sudden passing of Woody, one of the very special members of the Robertson community, who with his wife Kerstin, has been responsible for rescuing and nursing injured and orphaned wildlife. There is much more to the story of Woody. Excerpts from a tribute to Woody from the Australian Association of Retired Airline Pilots (AARAP) and from Kerstin's eulogy are presented below with permission, respect and sympathy.

"One of the great characters of Qantas passed away yesterday. Richard Woodman retired from Qantas in January 2012 but the stories of 'Woody' still abound. Richard joined Qantas in about April 1966 on No. 2 Cadet Course. After graduation he spent his GA secondment in Western Australia and was also called up for National Service. He spent his National Service at Holsworthy Army Base outside Sydney and was very 'adept' at running the bar in the sergeant's mess. In Qantas he flew the B707, Classic B747, B767 and B744, retiring as a Captain on the B744 in January 2012. He was a training captain on the B767. He was generous of spirit, as many now senior pilots remember him for his good-natured support and mentoring when they were junior.

Woody is survived by his wife Kerstin, sons Matthew, Edward and Benjamin, their partners and four granddaughters. " from AARAP

"In 1993 during one of Woody's flights to Frankfurt, Germany Kerstin and Woody were introduced to each other through a friend. Woody and various flight crews became regular visitors at the German's famous joints. October 1995 Kerstin visited Australia for the first time. After a few more visits to Australia they decided to move in together. Not an easy task when you live 16,000km apart. Kerstin gave up her job, packed her belongings and said goodbye to friends and family to be with Woody. Initially they lived in Mosman and Seaforth. Not only did they get involved in the rescuing and rehabilitating of Australian wildlife but also became "bikies", riding motorbikes all over the Australian country side or abroad during Woody's layovers.

A tree change took place in 2006 with the couple moving to Robertson, a run down property with the view to bring it back to shine. The renovations commenced in 2009 but was brought to a hold due to various serious health issues by Woody and Kerstin. Disappointingly and due to health reason Woody was required to retire from flying commercial aeroplanes in 2012.

2010 Woody and Kerstin got married after a long engagement. The marriage took place in Hahndorf, South Australia.

Woody and Kerstin took a breather but got quickly further involved in the Wildlife sector, with Woody holding various positions on the NSW Wildlife Council and within Wildlife Rescue South Coast. The caring for orphaned wildlife proved to be a full time job (day and night). Woody was well known and very treasured by everyone he met along the way incl. the staff at the Office of Environment and Heritage (former National Parks) and the Wingecarribee Shire Council, many other wildlife sanctuaries and fellow carers. In what little spare time they had, he swung onto his motorbike and cruised around the country side, either alone, with Kerstin or other biker's friends.

Woody was very proud of the wildlife sanctuary they established over the last 14 years and the community service they provided. His next project was to get involved in establishing a Wildlife Hospital in the Southern Highlands.

Kerstin and others involved will try to ensure that his wish will be followed through.

Woody was a loving, caring, mischievous mate to so many people and family. The love for Woody will continue and he will stay in all the hearts he touched. " From Kerstin's eulogy.

Being Scared Being Prepared

By Michael D Breen

We are very lucky here in Robertson. Even with a turned upside down COVID 19 world. We are still a fortunate mob. Our locals have been considerate enough to wash hands, keep a distance and keep an eye out for one another, manage the butchery, groceries, pharmacy, post office, doctors, garage, shopping for others etc. It could have been, and still could be, different. We are not totally out of the woods yet. It would be tragic to lose all we have gained and sacrificed and then to lose it by a bit of slackness, selfishness or impatience.

So what do we in Robertson learn from the horror the world is still experiencing so as to make life better? Which groups have survived best? Which worst? How will the most needy such as the frail elderly be catered for? While politicians are telling us we must 'snap back' many wiser folk are pointing out that what we had before COVID was not working for the good of all. Now, though, we have the chance to improve things for all as we rebuild. There is a chance to make improvements which have been postponed endlessly.

Two matters are worth considering. One is that we are a society a cluster of communities; secondly we are an economy. When the chips are down it is better to spend than let a lot of people die. Governments need to balance between promoting health while managing the sharing of resources.

Lots of people have had enormous pain; losing jobs, freedom to move about, teaching children at home, struggling to put food on the table and pay bills, being separate from loved ones. The restrictions, for those who can remember, have been like a dose of castor oil. Unpleasant but necessary for getting well. Well, that is what we were told. Social health and mental health have been given more of the attention they deserve. The attitude of 'I'm O.K. bugger you, Jack.' Would never have got Australia the success managing COVID 19 that is the envy of the world. Many links between families have been strained. Some by too much distance. Some by too much closeness with cabin fever.

The second standout observation from this crisis is that there are winners and losers in Australia. We are not as good as we could be at giving everyone a fair go. In the Boston university, where I was in the seventies, there were always couples walking up and down the main drive. One had a white stick and a blindfold, the other was a guide. Students who were going to teach the blind were being given a taste of what it was to be blind. They needed to know what blind was like from the inside; not from reading a book or going to a lecture. We have been experiencing isolation.

Not everyone had the same experience of isolation. But most got a taste of what isolation means from the inside. Older folk experience this more than most. When their friends and relatives die. When they cannot drive or have difficulty walking. When they are separated from years of contact, hugs and stories.

Mother Theresa is quoted as saying that 'loneliness is the greatest suffering.' So as Robertson is reconfigures let's make sure people are not isolated. Older people need to be able to walk to the shops, the doctor, the chemist, and for a beer or a coffee. They need to have people to say 'Hello' to on their way. They need suitable housing where they do not have the burden of larger houses and land to care for. This year's terrible suffering from bushfires and COVID 19 shows us how vital it is to be prepared. Thinking ahead beats being burned, endangering others' lives, or dying of COVID 19 virus.

Changes to advertising requirements for Council

Following the introduction of a series of regulatory changes recently introduced by the NSW Government, Wingecarribee Council will no longer advertise Council notices in local newspapers.

The regulatory changes come in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic and are designed to enable councils to continue to notify residents of issues of community interest as well as matters required by legislation. Council notices including planning matters and development applications, documents for public exhibition, community events and notifications of Council Meetings will instead be published online through their website at www.wsc.nsw.gov.au/council/advertisements.

They are now distributing alerts to advise people that their weekly advertising page has been placed on the website and offering a range of interesting newsletters. Learn more and subscribe at www.wsc.nsw.gov.au/newsletters

Let's Talk About Fear

By Graham Thomas, Minister, Robertson/Burrawang Anglican Church

As a keen surfer, fear is something I sometimes have to deal with. There's the fear of wiping out and ending up on the rocks, there's the fear of being held under for too long, and of course there's the fear of sharks! Although, just last week, while surfing down at Werri beach, I was joined by a number of dolphins, who are much better in the water than me (!) and got very very close, let me just say, they're still a big fish and little scary!

Over the past few months there's a lot of fear in our world due to COVID-19. There's no doubt people are scared of getting sick, but being honest with ourselves, the truth is, we fear death, our own mortality. This virus reminds us that our lives will one day come to an end.

OK, heavy topic, right? But as the expression goes, it's one of life's two great certainties... the other being taxes, so we shouldn't avoid talking about. Having said that, let's think about fear for a moment, and we'll leave the death discussion for another day! One of the most radical things about following Jesus is the concept of trusting God, that is, we trust him with our fears. Now, we don't trust him for no reason, he's proved he is worthy of our trust by the gift of his Son (his life, death and resurrection) but by trusting God we're saying 'he's got this.' I love this simple verse from 1 Peter.

The other radical thing about this, when it comes to following Jesus, is how God asks us to respond. He asks us to respond to this assurance by loving others. Not by being reckless or saying 'me first,' simply by loving others. Who would have thought that trusting God with our fears leads to loving others? But that's the teaching of Jesus.

If you'd like to talk to someone about this or think a bit more about what God says to us in these strange times, then contact the church office and we'd love to chat to you or tune in to our Sunday services online, details below.

All church services are presently cancelled at both Robertson and Burrawang Anglican Churches. You can receive the service outline, which includes prayers, videos of the bible talk and kids talk, plus some songs, via email or our Facebook Page. ## Swimming Pool Project Shelved

By Don Ferguson, President, RADSPA

The plans for the development of an Aquatic Centre are shelved due to the lack of available finance to complete the rebuild. Since the collapse on 18 May 2018 we have all witnessed grant and funding diversion to serious and more deserving emergencies by both Commonwealth and State governments. Our advisors believe it will be long term planning before funding opens for non essential community facilities.

RADSPA have continued to pursue two claims before our insurance companies and the lawyers representing the engineering company who designed and project managed the construction. We were close to receiving offers of settlement before the lock down. Insurance claims if reasonably settled will not supply sufficient cash to rebuild. The cost of completing the Centre would be in excess of $2 M.

The building assets completed to date can be used to develop an essential community asset with support of the community and grants from government sources. More will be known when activities are restored and Insurance claims are settled. Further info call Don 0419 445 413.

Simple Pleasures Appreciated After Iso-Time

By Naomi Janzen

As restrictions are eased, I reflect on what changed for me over the past couple of months, what didn't change, and how I might incorporate the best aspects of the former into my new normal from this point on.

Naomi Janzen

Lucky to be someone who already worked from home, seeing clients via Zoom, in some ways it has been business as usual - except that I had to cancel a couple of training workshops - one in Mittagong

(well, postponing) and one in Dublin that I was really looking forward to. That was going to be a big three months away visiting friends in Dublin, Berlin and Palermo while over there. Instead, I've been having video chats with them all and am feeling so grateful to be here not only in Australia but in the best part of Australia, where life is still comfortable in spite it all. Not like my overseas friends who have to carry papers with them declaring the reason for being outside of their apartments!

I have been trying to do my part to keep the local businesses afloat, ordering takeaway instead of cooking when I can. Keeping it local as much as possible has meant also ramping up the morning walks to keep from gaining too many Covid-Kilos.

Since I live alone, I had to make a bit of extra effort to be social online, when I was used to using online video for business, mainly. For that reason, I had my laptop set up on my dining room table for socialising. My iso pals and I discovered the surprisingly good fun of dressing up for dinners with each other - loving the chance to put on the gorgeous but uncomfortable shoes when they only have to make it from the closet to the computer. I felt a bit silly the first time I bothered to dress up for a computer date (with five women friends I was supposed to be on a yearly retreat in May with) but it really lifted our spirits to see everyone making the effort. It quickly became the norm. Of course, I have no desire to do that for my office desktop. That would REALLY feel silly. So, my clients get to see me looking businesslike enough...and I've got my Uggs on under the desk.

Now that things have eased, I've had a couple of times getting together with first two others, then four others in person, and it was joyful. I hope I don't go back to taking these simple pleasures for granted.

Keeping an eye on the news and hoping we don't see too much of a spike as we transition back to whatever normal awaits. Fingers crossed. No matter what, though, Robertson is the place to ride out anything, I reckon.

Gloog-Gloog the Magpie—a great listener!

By Karon Sacks

As many people would know, I have an incredible love for animals big and small.

Gloog-Gloog visiting the CTC—photo supplied

For about the last two years myself and CTC Manager Karen Mewes have developed a bond with a beautiful Magpie (Gloog-Gloog). He is very sweet and responds to both of us very well.

Twice a week we do feed him and he eats out of our hands. It must seem a bit crazy as I tend to talk to him as well. We have very good counselling sessions weekly about life .. I'm sure all our beautiful people that attend CTC do have a chuckle at observing our interaction, but all I can say is its great therapy! This incredible love affair has inspired me to draw 'Gloog Gloog' The Magpie.

I'm sure there would be many of us about that adore animals of all kinds and will relate to the above!

In times now as Covid 19 has descended into our lives, we I'm sure have been able to focus on animals a little more.

Keep safe and hope to see you all soon at CTC!

Temporary Men's Shed Set Up and Ready for Action

By John Kennis, RMSI President

The RMSI have now a temporary shed set up in the garage behind the scout hall. We have our machines that we purchased using the grant funds from the Australian government, thanks to Stephen Jones, set up and ready for action. Our members including the ladies of the women's shed are all doing some training on the machinery. The setup will enable all members to use the machinery to build their own projects or assist with community projects. We are fundraising by carrying out small projects for Pizzas in the Mist, the Rural Fire brigade, the Bowling Club and community members. On our women's training day recently, the ladies learnt safety with the use of a linisher, thicknesser, bandsaw and compound drop saw. They were truly excited at the prospect of doing projects for themselves and what the future holds for the men and women's shed.

Anyone interested in attending can come and meet us on any Tuesday and we will also be trying to get Thursdays up and running as well. We meet from 9am till 3pm. Come along and see what you can achieve.

Call us on 0455911980 to make an enquiry.

STOP PRESS—Have you heard that much loved and valued Robertson community member Pi-Wei Lim is leaving town? Find out more on her Facebook page. She will be greatly missed!

Robertson Community Technology Centre

by Karen Mewes CTC@Robertson Manager

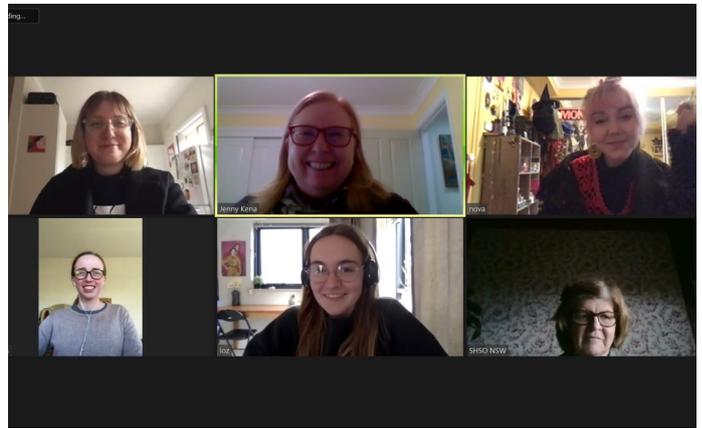

We were very sad to hear of the passing of Helen Mclaughlin, Robertson resident and long term customer of the CTC. Our thoughts are with her family, she will be greatly missed by all who knew her.

Like many businesses the CTC has had to temporarily close its doors to the public during the Coronavirus crisis. However it is not all doom and gloom. We are still handling some enquiries for remote support, mainly short calls to assist with setting up Skype, Zoom or FaceTime or downloading the CovidSafe app. Most can be solved with a phone call, in some cases we log on remotely to the persons computer to check settings and show them what they need to do. If you need assistance call the CTC number and we will get back to you during our normal hours (Thurs—Fri 10am-4pm, Sat 10am –1pm). No charge for calls under 15minutes. $20 per half hour seniors or concession, $25 per half hour otherwise.

We are also still able to do print and copy jobs but call us first for quote and to organize drop off and collection times.

Our big news though is that thanks to State Government grant money we are getting some much needed renovations done. When the CTC re opens we will should have a new kitchen, new flooring and fresh paint. Which is very exciting, it would have been difficult trying to get this work done whilst open so we are making good use of the closure. With thanks to our wonderful volunteers who have cleared out the old kitchen, committee members for many hours spent on design input and to the Robertson Men's shed for their assistance with some of the work

We are also working with several groups of students from Wollongong University on a branding project. This is an essential part of their course and both interesting and useful for us to see what ideas they come up with. Meetings with them and between ourselves are being conducted via Zoom, which has suddenly become the new way of working. Not had too many unplanned interruptions yet though my cat did think she should be the centre of attention during one meeting.

Meeting via Zoom

We hope it won't be too long before we can open again but the most important thing is to make sure everyone stays safe and well. Do support the local businesses that are still open, this is an especially difficult time for everyone but together we will get through it.

Call us for remote assistance with computer, mobile phone or tablets OR for printing, copying, laminating, binding.

Legends at Robertson Post Office

The Australia Post Australian Legends Award is presented annually to honour individuals who have made a significant contribution to the Australian way of life and to shaping society for the better. Who better to lay claim to this accolade than those whose career has been dedicated to making us laugh!

You can find out more about all the Legends at <https://australiapostcollectables.com.au/articles/meet-the-australian-legends-of-comedy>

The 2020 Australian Legends are award-winning superstars of comedy who have entertained and delighted audiences for decades. Each has also made a significant contribution to the community more broadly through advocacy and charity work.

The Australian Legends of Comedy 2020 stamp issue was released on 15 April 2020, in recognition of comedians Adam Hills, Magda Szubanski, Garry McDonald and Robertson's very own local legend Noeline Brown!

So call in and see Mel at Robertson Post Office and pick up a special pack of these stamps while they last.
